

SOCIETY and CLUBS

"How shall I comb my hair?" This is the question that is sure to be heard, if one ventures into a friend's room at the hair dressing period in her toilet. She surveys her hair on the table, there is a mountain of tuffs and curls, a very good match, really, then a long braid dangling from the side of the head, almost the same color, and then you look at the hair proper, that is fast on the head of the poor perplexed girl and it suddenly occurs to you that the natural hair is very beautiful and luxuriant if one just had a chance to get a proper view of it from under the elaborate coiffure, that is placed on top.

Sometime ago, Paris hair-dressers competed for a handsome prize. Each secured a pretty mannikin and their coiffures went to work. They spent hours with puffs and braids and built marvelous, Assyrian structures, from an architectural point of view, and when they had completed the Herculean task, invited in the judges. The first prize went to an edifice that makes one think of the rambling palace of an ancient Bluebeard. The coiffures were delighted with the results of their labor; they pictured to themselves the French women wearing the back stoop effect, an effect, however, that can only be properly attained by the deft fingers of a hair dresser, fingers first crossed with gold. They reckoned without the French women. The well bred Parisienne came to see the displayed coiffures, they stepped about gingerly without any display of enthusiasm and then went quietly home and dressed their hair in the very extreme, as plainly as possible. The mercenary coiffures were created, there remained just one thing, to impress the elegance of these coiffures upon the general public. And now, says Margaret Hubbard Ayers, in the New York World, "some women are foolish enough to really believe that these styles of hair-dressing enhance their looks, so that they see on the one hand hideous chicness and on the other coiffures of perfect simplicity copied from Greek statuary or from portraits of First Empire beauties."

The ridiculous style of wearing the hair is simply another phase of the exaggerated styles in hats and dresses that have been taken up by extremists. These extremists imagine that they are creating a something individual, new and "different" when in reality they only succeed in creating some ridiculous fad style that is humorously grasped by the unoriginal appendages and followers who take up these styles and pass them on to their followers. Among the really well dressed and well bred people one sees absolutely no so called Assyrian structures but the hair dressed neatly and becomingly and with some individuality expressed.

It is the same with the hobble skirt and other such creations. They are scorned by the dependable dress makers and good originators, who absolutely refuse to endorse such monstrosities. They, however, are panned off on the poor public in general, and the first thing you know, you see half a dozen hobbles, hobbling around on the streets in home made hobbles, that are really pathetic.

And what can be done? Nothing. There is, however, one good and altogether splendid remedy that has been evolved from the mad age of extremists. It is teaching women to think for themselves, to be independent of dictators and to rely upon their own taste, sense and judgment when they select patterns for their frocks. A recent bride, who understands the art of dress, thought, just because she was to be a bride, that she should seek a coiffure and have her hair dressed for the occasion. It took a long time to put her pretty tresses (and they are golden and this is a real live person) into puffs and curls and ringlets. And when that hair dresser had completed the task and had been paid for all the precious time at a pretty good price per minute the bride went home and took a mirror and surveyed herself pretty carefully from every angle. The time for the nuptial hour was approaching, but the bride pulled out all the dozens of hairpins and in a very few minutes had combed her hair in the pretty simple way in which she was accustomed to wear it. American women are more than ordinarily original and have a little streak of obstinacy when it comes to having some one else do their thinking. This very little streak, along with her own originality and individuality is going to place her in a position, in the near future, to originate her own styles, and dictate them too, instead of leaving her to depend upon the caprice and derelict styles of the Parisienne.

Mrs. John Furstenberger entertained the members of the H. F. Embroidery club of Richmond township at a delightful meeting at her country home Wednesday.

The early hours of the afternoon were spent with needle work over which the ladies chatted pleasantly. Later embroidery was laid aside and a social time enjoyed. A unique guessing was a special feature of the afternoon. This was won by Mrs. Elias Furstenberger of Marion, for which she was awarded a pretty prize. Mrs. Will Morganthaler won second.

At five guests were invited to the dining room where the hostess presided at a prettily appointed table. Guests of the hostess at this time were: Mrs. Fred Klingel and Mrs. Charles Schriber. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Imbody, the last Thursday in October.

A MEASURE OF MERIT

Marion Citizens Should Weigh Well This Evidence.

Proof of merit lies in the evidence. Convincing evidence in Marion. Is not the testimony of strangers. But the endorsement of Marion people.

That's the kind of proof given here—

The statement of a Marion citizen, Joseph Voll, merchant tailor, 400 N. State street, Marion, Ohio, says: "Since I publicly told of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills in October, 1899, other members of my family have taken this remedy and have been greatly benefited. I suffered from pain in my loins and my back became so sensitive that to straighten after stooping, was a difficult operation. There was also a dull, heavy pain in the back of my head and my kidneys caused me a great deal of annoyance. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Schmidt & Co.'s drug store, brought me prompt relief and after continuing their use a short time, I was cured. I am in a position to vouch for the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills and I recommend them highly to anyone troubled by his back or kidneys."

MAN IN CAR DEAD SIX DAYS

Italians Make Ghastly Find At Transfer.

WAS CRUSHED WHILE HE SLEPT

Iron Dropped Down Upon The Victim.

Coroner Hinklin Believes the Man an Italian—No Means of Identification as Yet—Body Will Probably Occupy a Nameless Grave.

Italians at the Erie transfer house discovered the body of a man who had been dead five or six days, crushed under a pile of structural iron in a gondola car in the Erie yards shortly after nine o'clock this morning.

A safety razor, lying on the bottom of the car a few feet away from the iron, led one of the Italians to crawl into the car to get the razor. He made the ghastly find. The other Italians took one look at the dead man, with skin discolored and distorted features and fled to the office.

Word was sent to Coroner W. H. Hinklin. Dr. Hinklin went to the scene and had the body removed from under the pile of iron. He examined a few witnesses and learned as much as possible about the case after which he directed that the body be taken to the Hess and Market undertaking establishment, which was done.

The dead man's body was badly discolored and bore many marks where the iron had fallen upon him. The coroner says he believes the man was an Italian. A search of his clothing failed to reveal his identity but a slip of paper found in one of the pockets contains five or six Italian names. His laundry bears several marks. A long knife, the dagger pattern, carried by most Italian laborers, was found in his pocket. He had no money.

It is very naturally supposed that

POLICE NEWS

Mrs. John Trey, who resides south of Agosta, reported to the police yesterday that her pocketbook was taken by some one on a crowded street car yesterday. The pocketbook contained $3 in change.

W. C. Wilcox, of Claridon, claimed that he was the victim of a pick-pocket to the extent of $37.

Only these two cases were reported to the police. It was stated today that there were no disturbances during fair week of any consequence and the extra policemen on duty had no trouble in coping with every situation.

There was an unusually large number of drunks and it seemed to be several drunks who wanted to drink. Several drunks were arrested last night but not nearly as many as fell by the wayside on Thursday night.

While in company with two women who were looking for a husband who was supposed to be ering, a brace of policemen got into the wrong house, Friday night. They unceremoniously opened the door and walked into a residence on Garden street and there found a man who is visiting here from Cleveland, lying on a couch.

A few questions were asked and the police took leave as unceremoniously as they had come.

The owner of the house which was invaded was quite wroth over the affair and this morning called Mayor Seiter by phone and gave him a piece of a rather late mind.

Cholera in Naples.

Naples, Oct. 1.—The cholera situation in Naples reached the riot stage yesterday. Several hundred carabinieri, called into service to assist the health authorities in disinfecting houses in the effector district and in isolating cholera patients, were compelled to fight the ignorant populace. Almost without exception the people resisted the efforts of the carabinieri and fought with knives and stones. The authorities, however, were unyielding and as a result of their rigorous methods, the various cholera spots of the city are today in a more hopeful condition than at any time since the disease reached the epidemic stage.

The government has ordered every house in the affected districts thoroughly disinfected. There have been twelve cholera deaths in the city since Thursday noon, according to official figures.

Cholera Spreading in Italy.

Rome, Oct. 1.—The cholera record of Italy for the past twenty-four hours shows an increase in the spread of the disease. Twenty new cases have been reported while six of the older ones have proved fatal.

News of two deaths from cholera at Constantinople has caused the fear that the plague is getting a serious hold there, and as a result a large number of suspects from the infected district at Constantinople are being held in quarantine.

RAILROAD NEWS

The day after the closing of the Marion county fair is always a busy one in railroad circles. There are hundreds of fair visitors returning to their homes, many exhibitors and many showmen moving on to the next place and much freight, horses and goods must be provided with cars.

THE TRUTH HAS COME OUT ABOUT ST. JOE

By United Press Wire. Washington, Oct. 1.—The census bureau today announced the 1910 population of the following cities and territory with changes since 1900:

St. Joseph, Missouri, 77,403, decrease 25,376, or 24.8 per cent.

It is stated unofficially that the decrease probably results from errors having been made in favor of the city in 1900.

Territory of New Mexico, 327,396, increase 135,085, or 67.6 per cent. This indicates that the new state will have only one representative at large in the house. Shawnee, Oklahoma, 12,474. The increase since the special census in 1907 is 1,619.

Glasgow, Missouri, 1,507, decrease, 165.

the man had crawled into the gondola car and gone to sleep in an opening in the iron which was piled high in the car. Probably sometime later the car was bumped and the iron fell, causing instant death. The skull was fractured and several other bones in the chest and limbs were fractured and the skin bruised and cut by the iron. The coroner is certain that death occurred five or six days ago.

The coroner turned the case over to the county authorities. As there is little likelihood of discovering the man's identity or of having relatives claim the body if such identification were made, the authorities will probably direct that the remains be interred in the potter's field.

The car in which the Italian was found was shipped from Hazelton, Pa. seven days ago by ordinary freight.

The body will be buried in the Marion cemetery, Monday.

BRIEF MENTION

A marriage license has been issued to Fredlund Minshall and Mrs. Maude Collins.

Memorial services will be conducted at the rooms of the Congregation of Israel, Masonic Temple on Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. and Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The hearing in the case of the State of Ohio against William Yonkins Jr., who was charged by Josephine Yonkins with failing to support their minor child was to have been held Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, but a postponement for thirty days was taken.

The Frances Willard's will hold a religious service tomorrow afternoon at the Old Ladies' home. Rev. William Craig will conduct the meeting and music will be furnished by the Medley choir and the members of Mrs. D. R. Findley's Sunday-school class of the Epworth church.

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG,

SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good."

It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures.

If you want a book that tells all about women's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. K. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
